Mr. McLaughlin-

In response to your question regarding the lead content in our paper, we have analyzed a variety of our products for the presence of lead. Our most recent testing was conducted in January 2008, and found that the level of lead present was far below the standards established in the ASTM Toy Safety standard (F 963-07), the European Union's Regulation of Hazardous Substance legislation (RoHS), the Canadian Toy Safety regulations and the new Consumer Product Safety Improvement Act of 2008.

In addition, we have recently sent new samples of our paper out for another round of testing. This will include lead content, and also the phthalates regulated by the CPSIA. We'll be sure to pass those results along to you as well, once they are received.

Thanks very much for your continued interest in West Linn Paper Company. If I can be of additional help, please contact me at (503)557-6687.

Sincerely,
